END OF TERM NEWSLETTER – 28 MARCH 2025

Dear Collegiate Community,

As we approach the close of our first term, I find myself reflecting on how we are indeed Living our Values; Building our Future. This year's theme is not merely a slogan but a call to action that echoes in the hallways, classrooms, sports fields, and all the many spaces where learning and growth happen at Collegiate.

Our brother school, Grey High School, presented us with a special gift in November last year in honour of our sesquicentennial year: a lamp post, with each of our five values pointing in different directions — Good Work Ethic, Responsibility, Respect, Compassion, and Integrity. What a fitting symbol it is, reminding us daily that our values are the guiding lights that show us the way forward.

Good Work Ethic has been firmly established for the year, as I have seen in the excellent results reflected in the reports that I have been reading. Many of our girls have demonstrated responsibility by working diligently, an effort that must be carried forward as we prepare for the rigours of the second term, which will culminate in formal June examinations.

However, as schools are not just institutions of learning but places where character is formed, we are also teaching our girls to live their values and build their futures. Sometimes, when respect is not shown, it becomes our role to guide and correct, to help them develop the social graces and empathy that will serve them well when they step into the adult world beyond the protected confines of our school. When integrity and responsibility are evident, it is then when we celebrate our well-rounded girls.

Underlying every educator's interactions with the girls in their charge must be compassion. Navigating adolescence is no easy task, especially in a world that bombards our girls with often unsavoury or shallow messages of what they should be. Social media, with its polished illusions, can cast shadows over real-life interactions.

Add to this the challenges some face at home, be it hardships or the illness of loved ones. Yet, even while teaching calculus, the contours of the land, or how to conjugate verbs in French, we strive to approach our learners with compassion and help them manage their struggles.

We also commend our Wellbeing Department for the invaluable support they provide. Our psychologist, Mrs Kelly, and our social worker, Ms Hayward, have invested deeply in the wellbeing of many of our girls. While we bade farewell to Ms Hayward at the end of February, we will welcome a returning Collegiate Counsellor, Ms Jacqui van Rooyen, in the new term. We know that many will grow in resilience and confidence from both her and Mrs Kelly's guidance as they navigate the challenges from the world surrounding us.

Integrity remains our final and perhaps most challenging value. Mistakes will be made. However, what defines a person is not the error but their willingness to own up, admit the fault, accept corrective measures, and move forward with greater wisdom. In this, we teach them that integrity is not about perfection but about the courage to strive for better, again and again.

As we prepare to take a break, let us reflect on the values we have embraced this term and the future we are collectively building. May the lamp post, gifted so thoughtfully by Grey High School, continue to be a beacon of inspiration as we enter the campus, reminding us daily of our five values and that the journey of living our values is ongoing and essential to our growth.

I wish you all a restful, rejuvenating break. To those who will be travelling, may you have journey mercies. For those engaged in sports tours, may you experience camaraderie and healthy competition. I look forward to our continued journey together in Term Two.

Warm regards,

MRS L ERASMUS
PRINCIPAL

STAFF FAREWELLS

MRS LEANA RODRIGUES

Mrs Leana Rodrigues has been at Collegiate for a short time, having started at Collegiate in January this year. Having moved to Gqeberha during 2023 from the Paarl area, the Rodrigues family settled down intending to spend many happy years here. However, life does not always proceed according to plan and the journey from Paarl has become a return journey.

In the short time that Mrs Rodrigues has been at Collegiate, she has immersed herself fully into all her roles and responsibilities at Collegiate, while still having to cope with two young sons on her own.

We thank Mrs Rodrigues for giving us this term. It has been a pleasure to witness her commitment, hard work and care, and we know that the next school at which she teaches, will be a fortunate school indeed.

MRS TIMMY VINCENT

Mrs Vincent joined the staff of Collegiate Girls' High School in January 2001 as a Physical Education teacher, and here we are, almost twenty-five years later, finding ourselves in the difficult position of saying farewell to someone who has been such a constant and valued presence. Looking back, it's incredible to think of all that Mrs Vincent has contributed to Collegiate over these years.

Those early years were filled with tennis practices, hockey coaching, and Physical Education lessons (and Maths) – with Mrs Vincent based in the Sports Office, where her tireless dedication and efficiency were immediately evident. For many years she not only organised and managed the school's tennis programme but also coached the teams with skill, care and success. An exceptional hockey player herself, Mrs Vincent coached the U16A Hockey team for quite some time and even led a Collegiate hockey tour to the Netherlands in 2006.

Mrs Vincent's strengths extended well beyond the sports field. As the years went by, her focus shifted from the Sports Office and Phys Ed to Room 269, where she is a beloved Maths teacher and, since 2016, Head of Mathematical Literacy. Mrs Vincent's high school teaching career began at Riebeeck College back in the 1980s. These words from one of her former students, who is now a teacher on our staff must be shared: "Mrs Vincent was everything we wanted to be when we grew up. We hung on to her every word in Guidance classes because she was vibrant, active, calm, and so understanding. She inspired and motivated us."

25 years of service. A tenure of passion, dedication and energy that never waned. We will forever count ourselves fortunate to have had such an exceptional educator grace our corridors.

ROMEO AND JULIET

At Collegiate, we champion the arts as a vital component of holistic education. We recognize that the expression of creativity fosters critical thinking, emotional intelligence, and teamwork. This production not only showcases the talents of our learners but also underscores our belief that education extends far beyond the walls of a classroom. It is about nurturing young minds to think, feel, and create.

How fitting it is that we presented Romeo and Juliet, a work that has resonated with audiences for nearly 429 years, in our own school that proudly celebrates 151 remarkable years this year. The enduring nature of this play serves as a testament to the themes of love, conflict, and the timeless human experience—reminders that some stories and lessons never fade; they remain relevant and poignant across generations, just as our school does. We saw our talented performers breathe new life into Shakespeare's words, we appreciated not only the artistry on stage but also the hard work, perseverance, and passion that each learner poured into this production.

As we wrap up this incredibly busy term, we reflect on the myriad events and celebrations that have filled our days with joy and purpose. From the elegance of the Matric Dance to the meaningful rites of passage, we have witnessed moments that mark significant milestones in our learners' lives. The House Day awards, RCL elections, and the excitement of electing our cheerleaders have all contributed to a vibrant school community. Our successful

Open Day showcased the incredible talents and passion of our learners, while the Collegiate Grey Mixer and the fun-filled grade fun days brought everyone together in laughter and camaraderie. Each event has enriched our experience, reminding us of the importance of connection and celebration. We are profoundly grateful for every moment we get to share, and we look forward to creating even more cherished memories in the days to come.
